Why working with us?

Seasonal booking for raw materials
Increased quality control and consultancy
Increased traceability and certifications

Seasonal booking for raw materials

- Allows the brand to secure the price for the whole season, even if cost of raw materials is fluctuating.
- Cost competitiveness due to bulk purchases and long term knowledge of the supply chains.
- Same raw material price for all garment factories: it's easier to compare price offers for finished products.
- Possibility to deliver both in Asia and Europe from multiple locations.

Increased quality control and consultancy

- First task for Molina company is to guide the customer through the selection of the correct filling material per each style, using its long experience in the market.
- Quality specs, number of test reports and any other detail on quality control is agreed with the brand at the moment of the booking. Independent lab test reports are usually provided to the brand per each lot produced.
- High awareness on Restricted Substance List required by brands.
- Each garment factory will receive the same materials, preventing some possible differences such as loft, down leakage, color,...

Increased traceability and certifications

- Single supply point for all garment factories: this highly reduces the number of units involved into the supply chain.
- Easier control of the supply chain.
- Less expensive and more effective traceability.
- Availability of materials certified with Responsible Down Standard , DownPass and Global Recycled Standard.
